David Levithan's reputation has been on the rise after the film of Nick and Norah's Infinite Playlist. His first novel since 2006 is a contemplative and heartfelt look at two teens who witness September 11th and one who sleeps through it. As he put it: "as the years passed, I realized that while there were some adult novels that talked about being in New York at that time, there were very few YA counterparts. Suddenly I felt the need to get it all down--to try to convey what it was like to be in that time and in that place before too much time had intervened."
