"If you don't make your voices heard in the real world, nothing will change."

David Hogg, survivor of the Marjory
 Stoneman Douglas High School shooting

In collaboration with Amnesty International, Jo Rippon presents a stunning range of more than a hundred protest posters, from the iconic to the obscure. The civil rights movement, the fall of the Berlin Wall, and the global outcry against the Iraq war—the largest protest event in human history—all make cameos in this comprehensive collection.

Charting a clear path through an increasingly disorienting political landscape, Rippon covers key campaigns for women's rights, nuclear disarmament, and the worldwide rally against capitalism alongside social-media-driven movements such as the Arab Spring uprisings and #BlackLivesMatter. The Art of Protest is a monument to artists around the world and across history who have taken up pen and paintbrush in the struggle for justice.

Simultaneously publishing for young readers as Rise Up! The Art of Protest from Charlesbridge.

ROBERT TOUGIAS is the author of Birding Western Massachusetts and The Quest for the Eastern Cougar and writes nature articles for publications throughout the country. His column "Bird's Eye View" appears regularly in the New London Day. He lives in rural Connecticut.

A month-by-month account of the birds that flock to the backyard of a noted naturalist.

This typical suburban Connecticut backyard teems with nature's mysteries. Intimate and acutely observed in the tradition of Thoreau, Birder on Berry Lane reveals the wonders of migration, the sensitive interaction of birds with their habitat, and the hidden meanings of birdsong. Identifying species by sight, sound, and nesting behavior, Tougias tunes in to the seasonal rhythms of this delicate ecosystem. Readers are also led to consider the dangers posed by climate change and human development.

All species mentioned can be found east of the Mississippi, making this book a treasure for beginning and experienced birders across the eastern United States.

Beautifully illustrated with twenty-five line drawings.

Meet the scientists and surgeons who turned the horrors of war into the gift of the first organ transplant.

Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts, 1954. Nobel Prize-winning surgeon Joseph Murray and his team did the impossible. They transplanted a donated kidney from Ronald Herrick to his twin brother, Richard, rescuing him from acute renal failure.

This first successful organ transplant was the summit of a long hard climb by a group of scientists and surgeons across the globe. Borrowing Life profiles these giants of science and reveals the intimate and fascinating story of their decades-long struggle to save lives.

Flex your intellect and condition your mental agility.

Love word searches? Book three of this challenging series by expert puzzler Christy Davis will test puzzlers of all skill levels on mental endurance and puzzling agility. With 126 puzzles produced on high-quality erasable paper, searchers will be entertained by themes such as "Supreme Court Justices," "Give Me Some Sugar," and "Pick a Major." Includes 20 hiddenclues puzzles sure to stump even the most experienced word searchers.

On and off the field, African American athletes have a long and challenging history of advancing the cause of social justice.

Celebrate the contributions of the many prominent athletes who risked their careers to stand up for their rights. Muhammad Ali refused to submit to the draft; Wilma Rudolph retired early from her track career to campaign for civil rights; Colin Kaepernick took a knee during the national anthem to protest police brutality.

In the nationalism-infused atmosphere of American sports stadiums, these daring and earnest protests are true acts of courage. Taking a Knee, Taking a Stand bears witness to this tradition and anchors it in the context of broader social movements.

Reading Picture Books With Children:

How to Shake Up Storytime and Get Kids Talking About What They See

Megan Dowd Lambert

Storytime isn't the whole story . . .

Drawing from years of experience at the Eric Carle Museum and a graduate degree in children's literature, Megan Dowd Lambert shares her groundbreaking technique for reading picture books with young children: the Whole Book Approach.

Discover how a picture book's design, illustrations, and words work together to tell a story. Resources at the end—including FAQs, a glossary, sample discussion questions, and a list of further reading—equip readers with everything they need to begin using the Whole Book Approach in their own read-alouds. Now in paperback!
