On September 1, 2002, Melville House published its first book — Poetry After 9/11. Dennis Johnson said “We wanted to make the kind of statement we thought only a book can make. It was a passionate project, as all art projects are — but it was definitely supposed to be a one-shot deal.”

20 years later ... Melville House's talent for successfully publishing undiscovered writers, its spirit of independence, its nimbleness with crash publishing, its strong point of view, its gorgeous packaging, and its integrity in an industry... make it an indie publisher stand-out.
