

Summer

A vibrant, stylized illustration of a family enjoying a summer day in a park. The scene is set against a bright green background with white, curved motion lines suggesting a path or a breeze. In the upper center, a woman with brown hair and a yellow headband runs towards the right, wearing a light blue patterned top and dark pants. To her right, another woman with curly hair, wearing a red dress with a floral pattern, runs towards the right, holding a small child in a white shirt. In the lower left, a young boy with glasses and a maroon shirt runs towards the left. In the lower right, a young girl with long dark hair, wearing a yellow shirt and grey pants, runs towards the right. A small brown dog is running in the center. The overall mood is joyful and active. There are also some decorative elements like a red star, a blue musical note, and a pink star scattered around.

Ages 12 and up • 240 pages • May 20

CAIT LEVIN is an innovative educator, project manager, and leader of teams. She is skilled in instructional design, public speaking, accessible learning, and strategic management and growth. Cait earned a BA from Barnard College and an MA from Middlebury College. When she isn't looking for ways to help women thrive in their writing, she likes to read, cook, and write fiction. Cait lives in Massachusetts.

imposter syndrome (noun): doubts about your abilities or accomplishments along with fears about people thinking you're a fraud despite evidence of your ongoing success

High school sophomore Cam has always created techie things, like a ring she implanted with an NFC chip. This semester, she finally gets the chance to take a computer science elective. Cam tries to ignore the obnoxious boys who don't believe she should be in the class at all.

Cam conspires with her quick-witted best friend, Viv, and they engineer their way onto the extracurricular RoboSub team. That ultimately lands them at a national competition as the only two girls on their team. Will Cam rise to the occasion and confirm—not to others, but to herself—that she belongs?

An inspiring debut that takes on self-discovery and gender discrimination in the engineering and coding fields, perfect for young YA readers.

CHARLESBRIDGE MOVES excites middle-grade and chapter-book readers, sparking a curiosity to read more. Our stories grow and sustain an appetite for reading over the long term, especially with boys and reluctant readers.

Josie and Abe both have secrets to keep.

Josie Sherman, 12-year-old aspiring vet, starts summer off with a bang when she rescues a bearded dragon—but her family's strict no-pets rule because of her brother's disability forces Josie to hide the lizard, Zuzu, in her bedroom.

Abe, Josie's 15-year-old brother, is a huge baseball fan with a dream of his own. But Abe lives with a rare genetic disease called Prader-Willi syndrome which restricts his independence.

Can Abe and Josie work together to achieve their dreams, even if it means sharing secrets that could get them both in big trouble?

MIRIAM CHERNICK is a debut author. She is also a substitute teacher and tutors Japanese students in English. She spends time helping to care for her brother, who was born with Prader-Willi syndrome, and she is a rare disease ally and advocate for the Prader-Willi Syndrome Association. Miriam has three adult children, was born in Paris, and has lived in Venezuela, Israel, Japan, and New York City. Now she lives in Maryland outside of Washington, DC, with her husband and a bearded dragon named Zuki.

Meet Cat Douglas, monster hunter.

Set in 1880s Scotland, this fun and action-packed read with graphic novel elements follows a team of classmates who battle monsters in their local R&A (Royal and Ancient) chapter—a Scottish monster-hunting society.

Join Cat and her friends as they adventure through a fantastical and historical Scotland in this first installment of the Monsters of Fife

Lola's mommy is having another baby!

This growing family needs more space to welcome their fifth member. Everyone works together to pack up their things for moving day. Mommy sets up a color-coding system to organize the boxes with stickers, and Lola and Leo help to pack and label their belongings. Once everything is almost ready, they say their goodbyes and leave a note for the new family. Then it's time to move! Lola's first night in her new bedroom is a little different, but she faces it with excitement—and the love and support of her family.

Lola's Moving Day is the tenth title in the much-loved Lola Reads series, as book-loving Lola continues to be curious about the world around her.

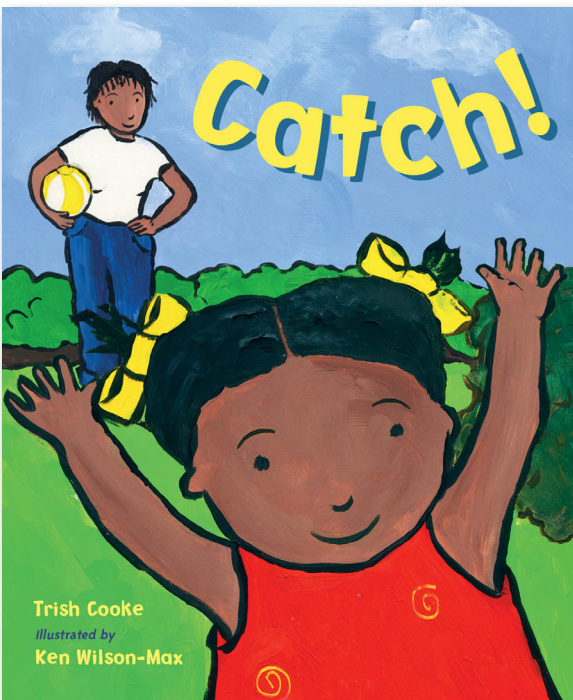

Lola loves reading! Join her as she explores her world through books with the help of her mom, her dad, and her younger brother, Leo.

Playing catch with Mom is the best way to explore the world—and finish the day.

Kiona and Mom play catch with a ball, an apple, a balloon, some bubbles, and more! Each object feels different to the touch (too big, too slippery, too soft), and each object escapes Kiona's grasp—but she never gives up.

Finally at the end of a play-filled day, Mom knows just the thing Kiona can catch—and keep forever!

This joyful picture book full of sensory detail captures the tenderness between parent and child.

CeeCee

Underground Railroad Cinderella
by Shana Keller
illustrated by Laura Freeman
978-1-62354-389-1 HC $18.99
Ages 4–8 • 32 pages • August 12

Freedom is worth the risk.

CeeCee is a young enslaved girl growing up alongside the two spoiled daughters she must work for on a plantation in Maryland. She takes care of them, catering to their every whim and suffering their casual cruelty. She learns to read by listening to their lessons and stories with the threat of punishment if caught.

With the help of the cook, Binty, CeeCee finds hope and takes charge of her own story. This retelling of the classic Cinderella fairytale culminates not with a handsome prince, but the help of a very different rescuer as CeeCee risks everything for her chance at freedom.

SHANA KELLER is the author of several picture books. She says the day she got her library card was more exciting than the day she got her driver's license. She has traveled her whole life, and has lived all over the US and in Europe, too. When Shana's not writing, she loves to practice jiu-jitsu, run half-marathons, and read. Shana lives in North Carolina.

LAURA FREEMAN has illustrated more than twenty children's books, including Follow Chester!: A College Football Team Fights Racism and Makes History; Hidden Figures: The True Story of Four Black Women and the Space Race (a Coretta Scott King Illustrator Honor book and NAACP Image Award Outstanding Literary Work for Children); the Nikki & Deja series; and Fancy Party Gowns: The Story of Fashion Designer Ann Cole Lowe. Her art can be found on a wide range of products, from dishes to textiles to greeting cards. Laura is originally from New York City and now lives in Atlanta with her husband and two children.

The Aliens Do NOT Want to Go Home

by Adam Gustavson
978-1-62354-494-2 HC $17.99
Ages 4–7 • 40 pages • June 3

When it's time for the aliens to go home, the excuses begin . . .

The alien kids are having a great time invading planet Earth. When their parents arrive to pick them up in their spaceships, they don't want the fun to end. They aren't ready; they don't have their shoes on; and besides, it's not even dark yet! Alien moms and dads may have to break out the tractor beam, because these kids do NOT want to go home.

Adam Gustavson's illustrations are expressive, hilarious, and also gorgeous works of art. But most importantly, young beings of any species are sure to get their giggles out and relate to wanting the fun to go on . . . and on . . . and on.

ADAM GUSTAVSON received his bachelor's degree in illustration from Rowan University and his master's from the School of Visual Arts in New York. He has illustrated several picture books, including the award-winning Good Luck, Mrs. K!; Long-Armed Ludy and the First Women's Olympics; Flip: How the Frisbee Took Flight; and Dirty Rats? He is the author-illustrator of The Froggies Do NOT Want to Sleep, the companion title to The Aliens Do NOT Want To Go Home. Adam lives in New Jersey.

XU BIN is an author, editor, farmer, and reading education practitioner. He has published many picture books, including With Bamboo and Bicycle Song.

YU YIN graduated from the China Academy of Art. The Chinese edition of Picking Tea with Baba won the 2021 Beijing International Book Festival Pineapple Circle International Illustration Award and was selected for the 2021 Bratislava International Illustration Competition.

Usually, Baba goes to the tea garden by himself. It's a special treat to join him.

Today is a special treat. A young boy and his mom and brother get to go along with Baba to their tea garden on the mountaintop!

They delight in the animals they see, compete to see who can pick the most tea leaves, take a lunch break, and weather an unexpected rainstorm. At the end of the day, they trek back down the mountain to sell the leaves before going home.

This beautiful picture book rooted in a faraway cultural tradition celebrates the familiar feeling of togetherness and accomplishment that comes with working hard to help one's family.

In the Autumn Forest
by Daniela Kulot
978-1-62354-619-9 HC $17.99
Ages 3–7 • 32 pages • August 5

Also Available:

All things must end . . .

Fall is here, and the forest is changing. When a storm is on the horizon, the animals debate whether something bad is brewing or not. Fox feels it. Crow sees it. And Mouse hears it. But Squirrel insists there's no need to panic.

What happens when the sky clouds over and the wind whips across the land? Is there any benefit to a storm after all?

A friendship-driven social-emotional picture book about listening to one other and appreciating nature's gifts. Continue reading about Fox, Mouse, Crow, and Squirrel in the companion book, In the Winter Woods.

¡Mira arriba! The stars belong to everyone!

Growing up in Puerto Rico, Wanda Díaz Merced wanted to learn everything she could about the stars. But in college she started losing her sight. How could she study what she couldn't see?

Wanda found a way. She learned to hear the stars using sonification, which converts data into sounds. Listening to those chimes and drumbeats, she made new discoveries about the universe.

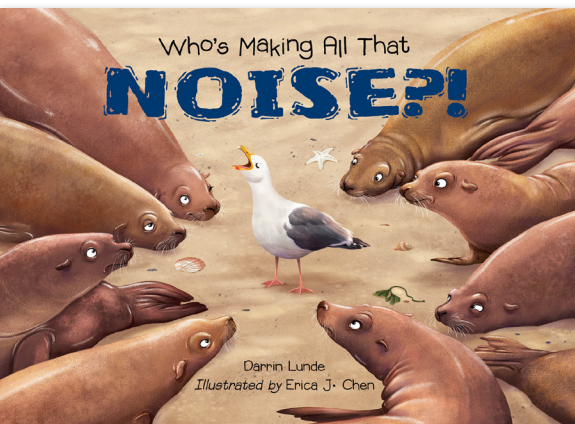

Today Wanda is a leading advocate for inclusive science. She and her friend Amy S. Hansen collaborated on this book to inspire children to follow their curiosity no matter the challenges. As Wanda urges, "Never give up!"

AMY S. HANSEN is an award-winning science writer who has published more than thirty books. Her favorite part of her job is finding out the answers to mysteries. Amy lives with her family in Maryland.

WANDA DÍAZ MERCED believes that science is for everyone! As a blind astrophysicist, she studies the stars by turning data into sound. She is a leading advocate for multisensorial data, which increases access to information, and has spoken before the UN and given TED talks about the need for more inclusive science. Wanda was born in Puerto Rico and lives in the United States.

ROCÍO ARREOLA MENDOZA is the illustrator of Sea of Constellations, Paula's Patches, and other picture books for children. She is also a freelance illustrator and the cofounder of Cúrcumas, a women-led creative studio. She lives with her family in northern Mexico.

Turtles need help!

The water around Cape Cod used to cool gradually, signaling to sea turtles that it was time to swim south. Due to climate change, now it stays warm too long and cools too quickly, making the turtles too cold to migrate.

Meet the real conservationists who rescue turtles, nurse them back to health, and release them into warmer waters. The operation involves hundreds of people: volunteers on beach patrol, veterinarians in the hospital, and pilots who fly the turtles south. They all work hard to save the Kemp's ridley sea turtle—the most endangered sea turtle in the world.
